1. The clocks of Roznov strike beautifully
They are taking my love away from me

2. They take her away, but I am not afraid
The hour will come when I marry, too.

3. Marry, my boy, with God.
Take a maid worthy of you.

The hymn-text was written by King Demetre I (1125-56).
 This is perhaps the best known of Georgian chorales.
 The poetry compares the Virgin with the grapevine.

"You are a vine in blossom,
 a beautiful plant in Eden,
 a fragrant poplar in paradise.
 You, blessed by God, have no equal;
 you are a shining sun."
